FREIGHT TRANSPORT CASE STUDIES

Swift Action Saves Temperature-Sensitive Cargo

Need

Late on a Friday afternoon, an urgent situation arose when a temperature-sensitive shipment of 33 skids of sheep lungs faced a critical threat. The container's genset malfunctioned, putting the cargo at risk. With the delicate shipment requiring precise temperature control, the client needed immediate action to prevent spoilage.

Solution

Momentum Freight sprang into action. Within 45 minutes, the team swiftly transferred the cargo into a reefer van set to -20°C at a nearby transloading facility.

Despite the late-hour request, Momentum ensured the temperature-sensitive cargo was delivered to the cold storage facility by 9 AM the next day, meeting the client's tight deadline and protecting the shipment's integrity.

Overcoming Dock Challenges for Timely Arrival

Need

When a shipment of 24 steel bars, weighing over 24,000 kg, arrived at the port of Montreal, our client faced a critical challenge. The destination in Stoney Creek, ON, lacked a loading dock, complicating the delivery process.

Solution

The Momentum team acted swiftly and transloaded the cargo from the container to a flatbed truck. We secured and tarped the load to protect it from humidity during transit. Despite the logistical hurdles, we ensured the steel bars arrived smoothly and safely at their destination.

Safe Transport of Radioactive Materials

Need

When a client faced unexpected delays and refusals from their usual carrier for transporting a Class 7 radioactive material, Momentum Freight was called upon for assistance. The shipment, a 520 kg crate of Category 2 radioactive material, required urgent and compliant air transport from Calgary, AB to St. Rose, LA.

Solution

Momentum Freight's team responded immediately to address the challenge. We navigated the complexities of hazardous material regulations with our specialized dangerous goods services. Despite the crate's unique dimensions (117x125x127 cm) and stringent safety requirements, we ensured a secure and compliant transport solution. Our dispatch and operations experts meticulously handled every aspect of the shipment, from packaging and documentation to air transport.

Efficient Transport of Overweight and Out-of-Gauge Cargo

Need

A client required transport of two enormous units, weighing 25 tons and 34.5 tons, arriving in two flat-rack containers. These oversized units, with heights beyond standard dimensions, required special handling to ensure a seamless delivery from Montreal to Concord, ON.

Solution

Momentum Freight orchestrated a flawless transport operation using specialized equipment, including step decks, to accommodate the units' height and weight. From the port of Montreal to our partner's warehouse and finally to the destination in Concord, ON, we managed every detail of the journey with precision and care. Our expertise in handling oversized and overweight cargo ensured a secure and efficient delivery, meeting all logistical challenges head-on.
